SLOW PROGRESS BACK TO NORMAL

President Harding's Physicians in Bulletin Today Confirm Earlier
Statement of Improvement

TEMPERATURE ABOUT NORMAL

President's Pulse is Still Accelerated and Considerable Improvement in Breathing is Noted

(By United Press)
Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Slow progress was reported by President Harding's physicians in their official bulletin today. The bulletin issued after 10 a. m. read:

"The president is fairly comfortable this morning after a few hours sleep. His breathing is less labored and there is but little cough. The lung condition is about the same as yesterday. He is still much exhausted, but maintained his normal buoyancy of spirit. Small amount of food is now being taken regularly. The temperature is 99; pulse 114; respiration 30.

"While progress is being made every care is necessary to secure freedom from further complications."

This bulletin confirmed in every particular the official statement of the president's doctors made last night and early this morning to the effect that progress from now on would probably be very slow but steadily and that the main task of the doctors would be to prevent any complications arising.

The official announcement showed temperature practically normal, pulse still accelerated, but gradually getting back to normal, and considerable improvement in breathing.

Every hour of sleep the president gets now is just that much medicine to him, his doctors said. Each time he awakens from sleep he seems to have gained new strength. His physicians today believed their task now consisted chiefly in "standing by" while nature, largely unassisted, performed the work of healing.

This work probably will be slow for a time, as the president's strength was sapped to a degree understood only by his doctors. His response, under difficult conditions of lowered vitality and pneumonic infection, to the influence of rest, has convinced the five doctors in attendance that unless some totally unexpected contingency arises, Mr. Harding will be virtually out of danger within a comparatively short time. The utmost vigilance was being

REVEALS HOW WELL REVIEWERS DID WORK

Orders Of State Tax Board Recommending Increases In Appraisements Affects 24 Counties

RUSH NOT AMONG THEM

The order of the state board of tax commissioners reconvening the boards of review in twenty-four counties to consider increased valuations throughout the state demonstrates how well the Rush county board of review functioned in June, it was pointed out in the court house today.

Rush county was one of sixty-seven counties in the state where the appraisals of personal property and additional improvements to real estate were approved by the state board.

The board of review adjusted any inequalities that existed in assessments during the session of the board and did not pass the matter on to the state tax commissioners, which would have developed complications and made it necessary for the county auditor to go through the assessment books and make the changes that the state board would recommend.

In some townships, for example, the state board recommended that single items of personal property, such as automobiles, be increased a given per cent. In one township it was horses and cows that were too low and in several it was household goods. In some it was farm implements and others live stock.

NUDE MOTORIST UNDER COVER

No More Reports Received of Man
Terrorizing Women

The nude automobilist who has been terrorizing women in Rushville has given up his nightly visitations, it is believed, because no reports of him having been abroad for several nights have been received by the police.

The last time he was seen was last Friday night, but since that time, he has been under cover and it is concluded that he has given up the practice of riding about in a machine with no wearing apparel on his body, except when in well lighted districts, when he was said to have worn an overcoat.

Plans to affect his capture have been abandoned because it is thought that he has been frightened by the threats of persons who promise to give him rather rough treatment if he should be caught.

SAY PRESIDENT WAS IMPOSED ON

Friends Of Senator Hiram Johnson
Incensed Because Harding's Speech
Was Released For Publication

POLITICAL TRICK, CHARGE

Secretary Hoover Principal Target
For Angry Johnsonites—Speech
President Was To Deliver

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(Copyright, 1923 by United Press)
San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Senator Hiram Johnson's friends were furious today over what they declared was a deliberate political "trick" played on Johnson and on them by members of President Harding's official party.

Publication in this morning's newspapers of the foreign relations speech President Harding would have delivered here last night had he been well, was the cause of all the trouble, which may grow into a political incident almost as significant as the famous Hughes-Johnson mix-up of 1916.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover is the principal target of the angry Johnsonites. They blame Hoover for getting the speech released for publication as a means of playing upon public sympathy for the stricken president to turn California against Johnson on the world court issue. If Hoover personally is not responsible, then some pro-Hoover and anti-Johnson member of the official party to blame, the Johnson forces think.

The fact that the speech was released by express direction of President Harding himself does not in any way mitigate or alter the case, Johnson's friends declare. They say Mr. Harding was too ill to understand the situation and the consequences of his action when he decided a controversy among members of his official family about the world court by releasing the speech as a statement to the press. The president, Johnson's friends say, was imposed upon.

Because of the president's illness, comment on his statement probably will be somewhat restrained. The document, prepared with great care was in brief an argument in favor of American adhesion to the world court, entered upon this point:

The administration, in two years activities in foreign affairs, has dealt with a great variety of problems affecting American peace, financial and other interests abroad and has contributed greatly towards peace and stability without a single instance getting the United States into an entanglement with old world politics. This two year record should therefore be accepted as evidence of the good faith of the administration in declaring that the American entrance into the world court will not prove an entangling alliance.

The president summed it in this way:

"Our hopeful aspiration is to contribute whatever we can toward the limitation of the causes of war. My recital of two years work in furthering our friendly foreign relations has had for its purpose the emphasis of that inspiration and the fruits of practical application."

PLASTIC SURGERY MAY SAVE HIS LIFE

Resorted To In Effort To Cure John
F. McKee Who Underwent Operation At Greensburg

BADLY BURNED IN EXPLOSION

John F. McKee, formerly cashier of the New Salem State bank, who was seriously burned several months ago in an explosion at his home southeast of here, underwent a serious operation Monday at the Memorial hospital in Greensburg, when plastic surgery was resorted to in an effort to heal over his burns.

It was first believed that skin grafting would be used, but instead the plastic surgery was used, and 2 hours and 30 minutes were required for the operation. It was expressed by one physician that the burned portion was literally skinned, and the skin stretched and replaced. The operation was performed by the three Inlow brothers of Shelbyville, formerly with Mayo Brothers, and Dr. H. P. Metcalf of New Salem assisted.

Unless complications arise, it is believed that he will recover and his life will be saved. The operation was one of the most difficult performed in any institution, outside of the larger clinical hospitals.

MRS. LOTTIE MOORE IS DEAD

Kennard, Ind., Woman Related Here
Expires Following Operation

Word was received here this morning of the death of Mrs. Lottie Moore, which occurred Tuesday afternoon at a hospital in Newcastle, following an operation for appendicitis and peritonitis. Mrs. Moore lived in Kennard, Ind., but was taken to Newcastle for the operation.

She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Daisy Helligoss, Mrs. Rodah Inlow and Mrs. Josie Alsman, all of Shelbyville, and Mrs. Mahin of Newcastle and five children. A number of cousins and other relatives living in this county also survive.

Mattox Circle No. 51, Ladies of the G. A. R., will hold their regular meeting in the assembly room of the court house Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

The funeral services will be held Friday morning at ten o'clock at the late residence in Kennard, Ind., and the body will be brought to the Arlington East Hill cemetery for burial, probably arriving there about twelve o'clock.

Gen. Hackleman Served Country In Many Capacities During His Lifetime

Cabin in Which He Was Born, Which Has Been Moved to City Park
Here, Was Built by His Father,
Major John Hackleman, in 1803.
Gen. Hackleman, Statesman and Soldier, Universally Loved by His Men in the Army

By FANNY HACKLEMAN AYRES
The log cabin, in which General Pleasant Adams Hackleman was born—that was recently brought to the city park from Franklin county—was built by his father, Major John Hackleman in 1803. He bought the land on which the cabin was built of the government, Miss Vine St. John, a niece of Gen. Hackleman, who now resides in Brookville, owns the farm.

The deed was on parchment, and was signed by Thomas Jefferson, president, and James Madison, secretary of state. The deed, with other valuable papers, was lost in the flood of 1913. The rescuers were too busy saving lives to save furniture. An addition was later built to the log cabin.

Pleasant Adams Hackleman was born on the 15th day of November, 1814, three miles below Brookville, in Franklin county. His father, Major John Hackleman, served his country in the war of 1812. His great grandfather, Michael Hackleman, was born in Germany in 1720 and emigrated to this country when seventeen years of age. His grandfather, Jacob Hackleman, was a soldier in the Revolutionary war.

The early years of P. A. Hackleman were spent amid the toils and privations of pioneer life. His opportunities for acquiring an education were necessarily limited. But a keen and vigorous intellect finds means to surmount all obstacles and push on toward the goal of its ambition. He cultivated and stored his mind with all kinds of useful information, until intellectually he ranked among the very foremost men of the state.

He married Sarah Bradburn, of Scotch ancestry, October 31, 1833. He was commissioned a lieutenant of militia by Gov. Noah Noble, on December 31, 1833. He acquired his first knowledge of military tactics. He found this knowledge useful in later years when he was confronted with the task of organizing and drilling a regiment.

He studied law with John A. Mattson, esq., of Brookville, was admitted to the bar. He removed with his family to Rushville in 1837, where he Delegate to Chicago Convention that nominated Abraham Lincoln.

Was Editor of The Republican 1839-1861.

Commissioner to Conference Convention at Washington in 1861 to attempt to avert war.

Colonel Indiana Volunteers, Sixteenth Regiment.

Brigadier General under General Halleck at Corinth.

1862, Placed in command of the "1st Brigade of the 2nd Division of the Army of the Mississippi," under General Grant and remained there until his death, when he was shot in action on October 3, 1862, while at the head of his Brigade before Corinth.

rapidly rose to distinction in the legal profession. In August, 1837 he was elected judge of the probate court of Rush county, which office he held until May, 1841.

In 1840, in company with his brother, Oliver C. Hackleman, he established the Rushville Whig. In 1841 he was elected to the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Indiana. For six years, he was the representative of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of Indiana to the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. of the United States.

He was twice selected by his party as their candidate for congress, as a Whig in 1847, and as a Republican in 1858. He was defeated because his party was normally in a minority, but carried his own county by a large majority.

He was chairman of the mass convention at Indianapolis, which nominated the state officers elected in the fall of 1860, and was, by the same convention, appointed delegate for the state at large, to the National Republican Convention held at Chicago, which nominated Abraham Lincoln for president. Immediately before war was begun, Lincoln applied to Rushville in 1837, where he

RUSH COUNTY PEOPLE TO GO

Plan To Attend Morton Centennial
Celebration At Centerville

Several Rush county people are planning to go to Centerville, Wayne county, Saturday, for the Governor Oliver P. Morton centennial celebration, at which one of the speakers will be Senator James E. Watson of this city.

The celebration will open on Friday with a home coming day, when addresses will be delivered by Henry U. Johnson, William Dudley Foulke and John L. Rupe, all of Richmond. Friday night a pageant written by Miss Bessie Buhl, "The Call of Oliver P. Morton," will be given and will depict the life of Indiana's war governor from infancy until his death.

Governor McCray, (Senator-elect Ralston and others, in addition to Senator Watson, will speak on Friday.

EXTRA NUMBER PUT ON PROGRAM

Clifford Foote Company, Engaged
For Farmers Day At Chautauqua,
To Remain For Night Session

SEASON TICKETS ARE SELLING

W. McClean Work, Platform Manager,
Declares Program Is Better Than Richmond Assembly's

The program committee of the Rush County chautauqua had planned not to have a Saturday night program giving a "night off" before the last Sunday, but the Clifford Foote company, which was secured for the Farmer's day, had planned for another engagement on the evening of that date, but failed to get a single evening date elsewhere. This leaves the company with an open date for Saturday night and the committee is required to pay the fee for the day anyway. So a Saturday night program will be given.

The company has a half hour Chinese play which can only be given after night. This play will be given together with several other novelties which the company gives. This company is composed of three artists: Clifford A. Foote, baritone and reader; Miss Marcella Franks, soprano and pianist; and Gerald S. Pel, tenor and water color artist.

The program given by this excellent organization consist of trios, duets, solos, water-color paintings, readings and original one-act plays. A portion of the program is given to costume, the Indian numbers of which were arranged and costumed by the Princess Neawanna, who was here winter before last with the community orchestra.

While specializing in classic programs, this company is also prepared to give programs of the lighter popular selections, thus insuring a varied and artistic entertainment to any audience.

The following persons have reported that they have sold their allotment of tickets:

The Chautauqua is an institution which the people of Rush County appreciate because it gives an opportunity right here at home to hear and enjoy the best in lectures and entertainment without the added expense of leaving home. Then, too, the program given for an adult ticket ($2.00) or a child's ticket ($1.00) is such that a person will get his money's worth by attending but one-third of the program. The wonderful plays given on Thursday, August the 9th, by the Shepherd of the Hills company and the band programs on Friday, August 10th, alone are worth the price of a ticket.

The secretary is keeping a list of guarantors who have not yet sold out their tickets and will direct persons needing tickets to them. See store windows for notices of tickets available.

ALL LOSSES FROM ONE FIRM

Condition Of Marion Plant And Note
And Mortgage Company Probed
By State Commission

Indianapolis, Ind., August 1. — Belief was expressed today by persons connected with the investigation of the R. L. Hollings Company of Indiana and its subsidiaries, that settlement of the parent companies affairs would be made in such a way as to minimize losses to Indiana investors. It was said today that the only losses investors in Indiana subsidiaries might suffer would come from a single industrial firm in the state. Maurice Mendenhall, administrator of the Indiana securities commission, returned today from Columbus, Ohio, where he made a two days investigation of the Hollings situation there.

Investigation of the condition of the Western Drop Forge Company of Marion, Ind., a subsidiary of the Indiana Hollings Company, was expected to be completed today by representatives of the attorney general's office and the state securities commission.

State officials have been probing the Marion concern and the International Note and Mortgage Company of Indianapolis, because they were the only Hollings subsidiaries organized under the supervision of placed the amount at about $12,300,000. An unofficial estimate of the Hollings stock outstanding in Indiana placed the amount at about $12,300,000, according to Bert McBride, receiver.

The estimate given out as to the outstanding stock of the various companies follows:

Brazil Clay Products Company, Brazil, capital, $2,000,000; common outstanding, $750,000; preferred authorized $1,250,000; preferred issued, $1,200,000.

Anderson Foundry and Machine Company, Anderson; capital, $1,200,000; common outstanding, $400,000; preferred, authorized and outstanding, $800,000.

Hungro Manufacturing Company Warsaw, capital, $1,500,000; common outstanding, $500,000; preferred outstanding $1,000,000.

ROAD PROGRAM FOR SUMMER

Seventeen Roads Being Worked Over in Allen County Now

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 1—The greatest road building program in the history of Allen county is being carried on this summer. Seventeen roads are under construction.

By fall 40 miles of new concrete road will be finished, and many miles of other types of construction will be added to the county's system of highways.

The work includes 16 miles on the Lincoln highway and 12 1/2 miles on the Lima road.

County and state maintenance crews are busy repairing and resurfacing other roads.

Mr. Harding further said:

That he would not fight the senate for ratification of the court without reservation.

That he was proud of his administration's foreign relations record and of the "historic services of a great secretary of state."

That the Washington arms conference was the great outstanding achievement.

That the conference was not only a step towards world peace generally but that it had specifically removed apprehension of war from the Pacific area.

That he had not recognized Russia and that he would not because to do so would be to perpetuate the ills of Russia and to encourage a menace to American institutions.

That he hoped for success of the Mexican parleys but that Mexico must give assurances against confiscation.

That he was gratified that the United States had been able to be of aid in helping and be more firmly the peace of the western hemisphere by assisting in settling South and Central American questions.

That American intervention in Haiti and San Domingo had been of great value to those countries and that American troops would be soon entirely withdrawn from both.

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything; had the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything.

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day these came to be Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui. . . .

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months.

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman.

"Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui? I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better tonic made for women than Cardui." NC-151

FOG KEEPS VESSELS BACK

Only Ten Able To Make Rush To Land Immigrants Today

New York, Aug. 1.—Nature came to the aid of immigration officials who sought today to check the rush of would be American residents taking advantage of the new monthly quota. A dense bank of fog off Nantucket lightship and extending 100 miles eastward confined the mid-night race of liners to ten vessels, another ten vessels could not reach Graves End Bay.

At 1 a. m., today the ten fortunate liners made their hush for quarantine, seeking to be first across the line between Forts Wadsworth and Hamilton, so that their immigrant passengers might be checked in as first to be counted in the new quota. The Majestic and the Adriatic were not in the final dash, being caught in fog off Nantucket Lightship.

Gen. Hackleman Served Country in Many Capacities During Lifetime

pointed him one of three peace commissioners of the North to meet three from the South, led by Alexander H. Stephens for the purpose of making peace between the two sections. His mission was futile. The South was determined to dissolve the Union.

When the first call for 75,000 men was issued, he offered his services to Gov. Morton and on the 18th day of May was commissioned Colonel of the Sixteenth Regiment, which he commanded in the East for one year. He was made Brigadier General and transferred to Grant's army, and was assigned to command the First Brigade of the Second Division of the army of the Tennessee.

At Corinth, Miss., October 3, 1862, his fearless courage saved the day at the cost of his own life.

"In front of his line a railroad embankment extended through the thick woods, and a rebel battery covered it. The enemy was massing and throwing out a wing behind this protection and it became necessary to charge over the earthwork and drive back the foe. When the troops reached the open, in the zone of cross fire, they broke and retreated in confusion which was made worse by the coming up of a regiment of reinforcements. Having reformed his lines, he personally led his men to the charge, and just as the top of the embankment was carried the General received a fatal wound. His career, though brief, was brilliant. But the enemy's flag was turned, and the tide turned to ebb for the Confederacy in that section of the South, leaving open the road which ended at the fall of Vicksburg.

J. R. S. Cox, a private of company D, Sixteenth, Ind., Volunteers, who was for twelve months under his command, when learning of his death, wrote as follows:

"Let others speak of him as the lawyer and statesman, how well he acquitted himself in civil life, is for them to say; but when leaving all to do battle for his country, he did so bear himself as a soldier that while almost adored as a commander, he was venerated as a father by every man in the Sixteenth Indiana. We endured no hardship, he did not share, and no regiment ever loved their colonel more devotedly than the Sixteenth did, P. A. Hackleman. I have seen him wrap his blanket around him in the rain, and lie down to sleep on the damp ground, and when resting on the march, eating a cracker by the roadside, surrounded by a crowd of boys, roaring at his jokes; often trudging on foot, carrying a gun, while a sick man rode his horse."

THE SINNER:—Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.—James 4: 17.

Farmer-Labor Coalition

The victory of the farmer-laborer, so-called, in Minnesota recently, has caused many students of politics to examine the possibilities of a farmer-labor coalition, and many have come to the conclusion that it is not economically sound—a fact which the farmer will realize when he gives the matter some thought.

The farmer is an employer and needs continually an adequate supply of efficient labor.

The workman is a seller of labor service and is trying by organized effort to curtail the supply by insisting on laws limiting immigration, by demanding shorter hours and working rules that will necessitate the employment of greater numbers to do a given amount of work.

The farmer as a producer of goods for a competitive market needs lower wages in order that with lower prices for his products his cost of production may be reduced.

Organized labor is demanding a continually higher wage, and through its success in maintaining higher wages is not only attracting labor away from the farms, but is also increasing the wages of those who remain on the farm.

The farmer is in need of transportation facilities at the lowest possible rate compatible with adequate service.

From fifty to sixty percent of the operating expenses of the railroads is a direct labor cost. Railway employees in demanding an increased wage are, therefore, working directly counter to the farmer's desire for a reduction in rates.

In view of these considerations, it becomes pertinent to inquire whether a coalition between farmer and laborer is economically sound.

Wallace' Farmer puts it this way:

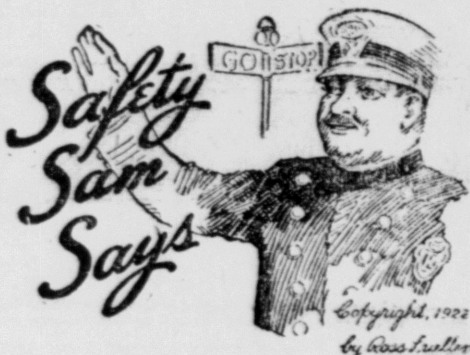

"The one reason why farm product prices average only 30 to 40 percent above pre-war, whereas wages are twice pre-war, is that there is a surplus of farm products to be sold on the European market, whereas labor, because of immigration restrictions and tariffs, is sheltered from Europe. The farmer is on the international market, whereas labor is off the international market."

"Unfortunately, for the time being, the men who are cultivating both laborers and farmers seem to be interested solely in politics, and they find that the best way to accomplish their political ends is to hold up to both farmers and laborers, the sins of big business."

"The fundamental problem at the present time is to take farm products off the international market and raise them to a price as far above pre-war as wages are above pre-war. Will the leaders or organized labor help? If not, there is no use talking about a farmer and laborer alliance as long as present conditions continue. If such an alliance ever does materialize, it will indicate that both farm leaders and labor leaders are willing to think about the fundamentals of our civilization, that they are statesmen in the broadest sense of the term, and that both classes are educated so that they are imbued with a national cooperative ideal instead of profit, as the motive in everything they do."

The writer of the above editorial, it will be observed, rejects absolutely the possibility for an economic alliance between the farmers and organized labor. It is obviously becoming clear to the thoughtful farmer that the high wages paid to labor on the railroads and in the shops have taken away labor from the farms. It is also being realized that organized labor in railroad strikes and coal strikes has given no consideration to the economic welfare of the farmers. No national cooperative ideal can be made consistent with increasing demands enforced by strikes on the part of workmen.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus.

That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

Current Comment

Buncoing The Farmer

(Wallace' Farmer)
Traveling solicitors of an eastern monthly farm journal seem to be at work in southwestern Iowa, and perhaps in other parts of the state, working a regular old-fashioned bunco game. They are going about in overalls, evidently in the hope that they may be taken for real farmers. Their first approach is by the presentation of a petition demanding lower taxes, the prevention of labor strikes, the licensing of commission men, and the reduction of freight rates. There are not many farmers who are not in favor of those four propositions, and consequently the solicitor gets a favorable reception. After signing the petition the farmer is told that a necessary part of the proceeding is the payment by him of the trifling sum of two dollars for which he will receive this particular farm journal for ten years.

Of course it is the two-dollar subscription the solicitor is after. All the rest is merely window dressing. The payment of the two dollars will not bring any lower taxes, nor lower freight rates, nor anything else except probably the monthly issues of this particular farm journal. It is simply a scheme for capitalizing the farmer's trouble for the benefit of this particular publication and not a very creditable scheme at that. One is inclined to wonder whether a publication that tries to work such a game is as sincere as it would like to have its readers believe. A paper that is worth reading ought to sell on its merits and the service it renders.

The members of the Helping Hand Society of the Homer Christian church, their families and friends, numbering seventy in all, gathered at the A. J. Springer woods south of Homer last Thursday for an all day picnic. At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was served and the afternoon was spent socially with swimming. Late in the evening refreshments of ice cream, cake and lemonade were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Tweed Barron of Sexton entertained Sunday with a dinner party, honoring Mrs. Barron's relatives. The affair was in the form of a reunion and was the first one the family had enjoyed. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Paul McFarland and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McFarland and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Cora Shock and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McFarland and family, all of Hamilton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. McCollough and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McFarland and son, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McKorkhill, Mr. and Mrs. John Bevelhimer and sons of Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Will O. Feudner entertained at six o'clock dinner Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Sapp, and the Rev. and Mrs. William Smith and daughter Helen, of Huntington, Indiana. Mr. Sapp, who was here to address the Methodist county meeting, Tuesday, was accompanied by Mrs. Sapp and the Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of the M. E. church at Huntington, and his family. Mr. Sapp is district governor of Rotary clubs also spoke to the Rotary club while here. The Rev. Mr. Smith was born and reared in Anderson township and has a wide acquaintance in this county. He formerly was pastor at Connerville.

DEMANDS SENATOR PROVE THE CHARGES

Governor Blaine Wants Basis For Charges That Women Were Assaulted in State Capitol

SENATOR SAYS HE HAS IT

Madison, Wis., August 1—Governor Blaine today challenged State Senator Hiram J. Severson to prove charges in a speech last night that "women had been locked in offices and assaulted by state officials in the state capitol."

"If Senator Severson possesses proof he should lay it before me so that the guilty officials may be removed from office," Blaine said.

He wired the senator that he would also direct the district attorney to start criminal proceedings if such proof is forthcoming.

"I demand that you name the officials," Blaine's telegram said. "This demand is as emphatic as your duty is imperative."

Waupac, Wis., August 1—State Senator J. M. Severson today declared, he possessed facts, evidence and witnesses to back up charges that state officials had locked women in offices at the state capitol and assaulted them.

During the last session of the state legislature charges were made in the state house of "liquor bouts" between legislators and lobbyists and rumors of "gay parties" were whispered about.

SHANK IS AFTER BLESSING

Says He Will Demand Resignation of Service Commissioner

Indianapolis, Ind., August 1—Edgar M. Blessing, member of the public service commission and object of renewed attack by Mayor Shank, was in conference with Governor McCray today, presumably over Shank's latest attack.

Shank charges that Blessing represented a number of local utilities in Hendricks county after he was appointed a member of the commission.

"I'm going to demand Blessing's resignation and keep after him until I get it," Shank announced defiantly.

"I never represented any public utility after I became a member of the state commission," Blessing said.

THREE TRAINMEN KILLED

Nashville, Tenn., August 1—Three trainmen were killed and five other persons injured here shortly before midnight when a switch engine on the Louisville and Nashville split a switch and side-swiped the west-bound Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis freight train No. 42. The dead, all members of the train crew of No. 42 are: W. Y. Mason, conductor, F. H. Smith, engineer, W. H. Trasher, brakeman.

TROLLEY WORKERS STRIKE

Newark, N. J., August 1—A million and a half people of New Jersey were without their daily means of transportation today—strike of 6,300 employees of the public service corporation having completely paralyzed the vast network of the trolley lines over the state. The strike was declared at noon to be 100 per cent effective.

COOLIDGE HAPPY BUDDY IS BETTER

By PAUL R. MALLON
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Plymouth, Vt., August 1—The man who would have been president sits on the front porch of an old Green Mountain homestead today with the happiest heart in the world—his buddy has pulled through the crisis.

Calvin Coolidge, vice president of the United States, peers over the pine-topped hill tops to the westward and sees the picture of his chief, his friend and his buddy, struggling against the toxins of death to win out. It means that "Cal" as everyone calls him hereabouts, may not be president, but "Cal" didn't want to be president that way. He wanted his chief to win the fight and he is glad.

Ten miles from a telegraph line, back in the hills, where Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain boys routed the Red Coats, Coolidge is in direct touch with the bedside of his chief and president, Mr. Harding, ill at the Palace Hotel, across the continent in San Francisco. From Washington the vice president receives hourly bulletins on the condition of the chief executive. He has sent his sympathy to Mrs. Harding and a word of cheer to the president.

When he was given word that the president was believed to have passed the crucial point of his illness "Cal" was elated. There was a score of newspaper men who had traveled from all parts of the east, sitting on the doorstep and the 34 voters of Plymouth all were there.

"In common with all Americans," Coolidge said, "I am distressed at the illness of President Harding, and besides I am grieved at the suffering of a man with whom I have been so intimately associated on terms of more than ordinary friendship. The report indicates to me that he will recover to resume the important service which he is rendering to his country."

Autos Plunge Into Crowded Street

A freakish accident occurred in an uptown New York street, just off Broadway, when two automobiles tumbled out of the second story window of a garage. Passing crowds returning from theaters narrowly escaped death when a mechanic tried to move one machine and it rammed into another so hard that both were propelled through the window. Picture shows the first machine overturned and the second lying on its side.

SLOW PROGRESS BACK TO NORMAL

maintained today; however, and will be continued so long as there is the slightest possibility of a relapse. Dr. Sawyer and the other medical men cannot now see any danger of any such turn in the case, but out of long experience, Sawyer said today that "you never can tell what may happen."

Doctors Sawyer, Boone, Work, Wilbur and Cooper were to make their usual early morning examination of the patient about 8 a. m., today if he was awake at that hour. Sawyer said last night in issuing a final bulletin timed 11:10 p. m., that no further announcements would be made until after the regular morning consultation unless some unfavorable symptoms developed.

The 11:10 bulletin said:
"President's condition at 11:10 p. m."

"Pulse 116; temperature 100.2; respiration 40. Resting comfortably. No further reports will come from sick room tonight unless unfavorable symptoms develop."

It was signed by Sawyer alone. This showed an increase in temperature of two tenths of a degree since the 4 o'clock bulletin, a no unnatural rise at night; a slowing of the pulse four beats and slower respiration by four breaths to the minute.

Taking into account the patient's general condition all through the day, the bulletin indicated a steady continuation of favorable progress, Sawyer said in issuing it.

A few minutes later Dr. Boone reported that the president had fallen asleep.

Mrs. Harding, who has stayed constantly close to her husband's bedside, may be persuaded by Sawyer today to take a short auto ride about the city to give her the benefit of the sparkling air, to which Sawyer attributed in part the president's good progress. Mrs. Harding has borne up with splendid courage and Sawyer expects she will not suffer any ill effects but he does not want her to undergo an unfavorable reaction when the strain of anxiety lessens.

All the members of the official party retired early last night, rid of the apprehension which kept them up nearly all of the previous night. Secretaries Hoover and Wallace and Speaker Gillette have remained almost constantly in the hotel, awaiting news of the president's condition.

Attorney General Daugherty, hurrying here from Seattle, was expected to arrive this morning. Daugherty who is a life long friend of the president, was summoned when Mr. Harding's condition grew grave. Daugherty is himself ill.

George B. Christian, the president's secretary, will go to Los Angeles tonight to represent the president tomorrow at a Knights Templar celebration and to deliver a speech for the president.

Wm. Wrigley of Chicago, a friend of the president, called at the Palace Hotel yesterday. He will invite Mr. Harding to convalesce at Catalina Island, where Wrigley has a magnificent estate. There are indications the doctors would favor the President's taking a week's rest somewhere near here before attempting the trip home.

Messages of Sympathy

San Francisco, August 1—Countless telegrams of sympathy and expressing hope for Mr. Harding's quick recovery have been received by the president and Mrs. Harding.

None of the messages will be given out for publication, nor will even the names of the senders be revealed, it was declared today, because of the wishes of Mrs. Harding.

She has taken the position that publication of those from royalty and from people widely known would be unjust to those more humble. All are appreciated equally, she feels and must be so treated.

Wilson a Sympathizer

Washington, August 1—Former President Wilson today sent a message to President Harding at San Francisco sympathizing with the executive in his illness.

Mr. Wilson expressed the hope that the president speedily will recover. The ex-president himself was stricken ill, while on a speaking tour of the country in behalf of the League of Nations and has not yet recovered.

The message from Mr. Wilson is understood to have been sent direct by telegraph to President Harding at the Palace Hotel at San Francisco.

Dr. Harding May Have Plane

Washington, Aug. 1.—If Dr. George T. Harding, father of the president, wants to fly to San Francisco from Marion, Ohio, to be at his son's bedside, the army air service is ready to supply a machine and pilot.

Officials here indicated Dr. Harding had only to express the desire.

"IT'S GOOD"

I was using a well known household article when my friend came in.

"Why did you buy that kind?" she asked.

"Because it's good," I told her. She asked me why. Without realizing what I was doing I gave her several technical reasons for the superiority of that machine. I listed a number of its mechanical advantages and one or more very special conveniences that I felt meant a great deal to me.

My reply surprised even myself. I had not realized I knew so much about it. After I had recited my reasons to her I analyzed my first answer, "it's good," and I found that answer typified all of the specific things I was able to recite about the machine which I had as a matter of fact recently purchased.

It had been widely advertised and I, as a larger buyer for a household, always felt that any woman may be guided to safe and satisfactory investments for her own needs and the needs of her family if she will but use the messages which manufacturers send to her in her newspaper or in her magazine.

Until I had said, "it's good," I did not realize that I had been reading so much about the advantages of the machine which I subsequently purchased. One after the other those messages had gotten into my mind until when asked to do so I was capable of repeating them almost as if I had been a salesman for the company making that article.

However, I realized that the printed message had not really meant so much to me as the repeated appearance. Seeing that article over and over again meant to me that many other women had reached the point where they could purchase it sooner than I and were well satisfied with it.

Almost instinctively the thought took hold of me that when I saw the name of a product appearing again and again I could feel sure that that product was living up to its promise. I could feel secure in buying it.

If only all women would realize that in whatever they buy—machines or furniture—clothing or food—dress goods or hats—jewelry or toys—they may save themselves unwise expenditures by seeking the product which through its advertising and behavior after purchase compels its thousands of customers to say, "it's good."

SLOW PROGRESS BACK TO NORMAL

President Harding's Physicians in Bulletin Today Confirm Earlier Statement of Improvement

TEMPERATURE ABOUT NORMAL

President's Pulse is Still Accelerated and Considerable Improvement in Breathing is Noted

(By United Press)
Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Slow progress was reported by President Harding's physicians in their official bulletin today. The bulletin issued after 10 a. m. read:
"The president is fairly comfortable this morning after a few hours sleep. His breathing is less labored and there is but little cough. The lung condition is about the same as yesterday. He is still much exhausted, but maintained his normal buoyancy of spirit. Small amount of food is now being taken regularly. The temperature is 99; pulse 114; respiration 30.
"While progress is being made every care is necessary to secure freedom from further complications."
This bulletin confirmed in every particular the official statement of the president's doctors made last night and early this morning to the effect that progress from now on would probably be very slow but steadily and that the main task of the doctors would be to prevent any complications arising.
The official announcement showed temperature practically normal, pulse still accelerated, but gradually getting back to normal, and considerable improvement in breathing.
Every hour of sleep the president gets now is just that much medicine to him, his doctors said. Each time he awakens from sleep he seems to have gained new strength. His physicians today believed their task now consisted chiefly in "standing by" while nature, largely unassisted, performed the work of healing.
This work probably will be slow for a time, as the president's strength was sapped to a degree understood only by his doctors. His response, under difficult conditions of lowered vitality and pneumonia infection, to the influence of rest, has convinced the five doctors in attendance that unless some totally unexpected contingency arises, Mr. Harding will be virtually out of danger within a comparatively short time.

REVEALS HOW WELL REVIEWERS DID WORK

Orders Of State Tax Board Recommending Increases In Appraisements Affects 24 Counties

RUSH NOT AMONG THEM

The order of the state board of tax commissioners reconvening the boards of review in twenty-four counties to consider increased valuations to equalize appraisements throughout the state demonstrates how well the Rush county board of review functioned in June, it was pointed out in the court house today.
Rush county was one of sixty-seven counties in the state where the appraisals of personal property and additional improvements to real estate were approved by the state board.
The board of review adjusted any inequalities that existed in assessments during the session of the board and did not pass the matter on to the state tax commissioners, which would have developed complications and made it necessary for the county auditor to go through the assessment books and make the changes that the state board would recommend.
In some townships, for example, the state board recommended that single items of personal property, such as automobiles, be increased a given per cent. In one township it was horses and cows that were too low and in several it was household goods. In some it was farm implements and others live stock.

NUDE MOTORIST UNDER COVER

No More Reports Received of Man Terrorizing Women

The nude automobilist who has been terrorizing women in Rushville has given up his nightly visitations, it is believed, because no reports of him having been abroad for several nights have been received by the police.
The last time he was seen was last Friday night, but since that time, he has been under cover and it is concluded that he has given up the practice of riding about in a machine with no wearing apparel on his body, except when in well lighted districts, when he was said to have worn an overcoat.
Plans to affect his capture have been abandoned because it is thought that he has been frightened by the threats of persons who promise to give him rather rough treatment if he should be caught.

SAY PRESIDENT WAS IMPOSED ON

Friends Of Senator Hiram Johnson Incensed Because Harding's Speech Was Released For Publication

POLITICAL TRICK, CHARGE

Secretary Hoover Principal Target For Angry Johnsonites—Speech President Was To Deliver

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(Copyright, 1923 by United Press)
San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Senator Hiram Johnson's friends were furiously indignant today over what they declared was a deliberate political "trick" played on Johnson and on them by members of President Harding's official party.
Publication in this morning's newspapers of the foreign relations speech President Harding would have delivered here last night had he been well, was the cause of all the trouble, which may grow into a political incident almost as significant as the famous Hughes-Johnson mix-up of 1916.
Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover is the principal target of the angry Johnsonites. They blame Hoover for getting the speech released for publication as a means of playing upon public sympathy for the stricken president to turn California against Johnson on the world court issue. If Hoover personally is not responsible, then some pro-Hoover and anti-Johnson member of the official party to blame, the Johnson forces think.
The fact that the speech was released by express direction of President Harding himself does not in any way mitigate or alter the case, Johnson's friends declare. They say Mr. Harding was too ill to understand the situation and the consequences of his action when he decided a controversy among members of his official family about the world court by releasing the speech as a statement to the press. The president, Johnson's friends say, was imposed upon.
Because of the president's illness, comment on his statement probably will be somewhat restrained. The document, prepared with great care was in brief an argument in favor of American adhesion to the world court, centered upon this point:
The administration, in two years activities in foreign affairs, has dealt with a great variety of problems affecting American peace, financial and other interests abroad and has contributed greatly towards peace and stability without a single instance getting the United States into an entanglement with old world politics. This two year record should therefore be accepted as evidence of the good faith of the administration in declaring that the American entrance into the world court will not prove an entangling alliance.
The president summed it in this way:
"Our hopeful aspiration is to contribute whatever we can toward the limitation of the causes of war. My recital of two years work in furthering our friendly foreign relations has had for its purpose the emphasis of that aspiration and the fruits of practical application."

PLASTIC SURGERY MAY SAVE HIS LIFE

Resorted To In Effort To Cure John F. McKee Who Underwent Operation At Greensburg

BADLY BURNED IN EXPLOSION

John F. McKee, formerly cashier of the New Salem State bank, who was seriously burned several months ago in an explosion at his home southeast of here, underwent a serious operation Monday at the Memorial hospital in Greensburg, when plastic surgery was resorted to in an effort to heal over his burns.
It was first believed that skin grafting would be used, but instead the plastic surgery was used, and 2 hours and 30 minutes were required for the operation. It was expressed by one physician that the burned portion was literally skinned, and the skin stretched and replaced. The operation was performed by the three Inlow brothers of Shelbyville, formerly with Mayo Brothers, and Dr. H. P. Metcalf of New Salem assisted.
Unless complications arise, it is believed that he will recover and his life will be saved. The operation was one of the most difficult performed in any institution, outside of the larger clinical hospitals.

MRS. LOTTIE MOORE IS DEAD

Kennard, Ind., Woman Related Here Expires Following Operation

Word was received here this morning of the death of Mrs. Lottie Moore, which occurred Tuesday afternoon, at a hospital in Newcastle, following an operation for appendicitis and peritonitis. Mrs. Moore lived in Kennard, Ind., but was taken to Newcastle for the operation.
She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Daisy Hilligoss, Mrs. Rodah Inlow and Mrs. Josie Alsmen, all of Shelbyville, and Mrs. Mahin of Newcastle and five children. A number of cousins and other relatives living in this county also survive.
Mattox Circle No. 51, Ladies of the G. A. R., will hold their regular meeting in the assembly room of the court house Friday afternoon at two o'clock.
The funeral services will be held Friday morning at ten o'clock at the late residence in Kennard, Ind., and the body will be brought to the Arlington East Hill cemetery for burial, probably arriving there about twelve o'clock.

Gen. Hackleman Served Country In Many Capacities During His Lifetime

Cabin in Which He Was Born, Which Has Been Moved to City Park Here, Was Built by His Father, Major John Hackleman, in 1808. Gen. Hackleman, Statesman and Soldier, Universally Loved by His Men in the Army

By FANNY HACKLEMAN AYRES
The log cabin, in which General Pleasant Adams Hackleman was born—that was recently brought to the city park from Franklin county—was built by his father, Major John Hackleman in 1808. He bought the land on which the cabin was built of the government. Miss Vine St. John, a niece of Gen. Hackleman, who now resides in Brookville, owns the farm.
The deed was on parchment, and was signed by Thomas Jefferson, president, and James Madison, secretary of state. The deed, with other valuable papers, was lost in the flood of 1913. The rescuers were too busy saving lives to save furniture. An addition was later built to the log cabin.
Pleasant Adams Hackleman was born on the 15th day of November, 1814, three miles below Brookville, in Franklin county. His father, Major John Hackleman, served his country in the war of 1812. His great grandfather, Michael Hackleman, was born in Germany in 1720 and emigrated to this country when seventeen years of age. His grandfather, Jacob Hackleman, was a soldier in the Revolutionary war.
The early years of P. A. Hackleman were spent amid the toils and privations of pioneer life. His opportunities for acquiring an education were necessarily limited. But a keen and vigorous intellect finds means to surmount all obstacles and push on toward the goal of its ambition. He cultivated and stored his mind with all kinds of useful information, until intellectually he ranked among the very foremost men of the state.
He married Sarah Bradburn, of Scotch ancestry, October 31, 1833. He was commissioned a lieutenant of militia by Gov. Noah Noble, on December 31, 1833. He acquired his first knowledge of military tactics. He found this knowledge useful in later years when he was confronted with the task of organizing and drilling a regiment.
He studied law with John A. Matson, esq., of Brookville, was admitted to the bar. He removed with his family to Rushville in 1837, where he rapidly rose to distinction in the legal profession. In August, 1837 he was elected judge of the probate court of Rush county, which office he held until May, 1841.

In 1840, in company with his brother, Oliver C. Hackleman, he established the Rushville Whig. In 1841 he was elected to the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Indiana. For six years, he was the representative of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of Indiana to the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. of the United States.
He was twice selected by his party as their candidate for congress, as a Whig in 1847, and as a Republican in 1858. He was defeated because his party was normally in a minority, but carried his own county by a large majority.
He was chairman of the mass convention at Indianapolis, which nominated the state officers elected in the fall of 1860, and was, by the same convention, appointed delegate for the state at large, to the National Republican Convention held at Chicago, which nominated Abraham Lincoln for president. Immediately before war was begun, Lincoln appointed him

Plan To Attend Morton Centennial Celebration At Centerville

Several Rush county people are planning to go to Centerville, Wayne county, Saturday, for the Governor Oliver P. Morton centennial celebration, at which one of the speakers will be Senator James E. Watson of this city.
The celebration will open on Friday with a home coming day, when addresses will be delivered by Henry U. Johnson, William Dudley Foulke and John L. Rupe, all of Richmond. Friday night a pageant written by Miss Bessie Buhl, "The Call of Oliver P. Morton," will be given and will depict the life of Indiana's war governor from infancy until his death.
Governor McCray, Senator-elect Ralston and others, in addition to Senator Watson, will speak on Friday.

EXTRA NUMBER PUT ON PROGRAM

Clifford Foote Company, Engaged For Farmers Day At Chautauqua, To Remain For Night Session

SEASON TICKETS ARE SELLING

W. McClean Work, Platform Manager, Declares Program Is Better Than Richmond Assembly's

The program committee of the Rush County chautauqua had planned not to have a Saturday night program giving a "night off" before the last Sunday, but the Clifford Foote company, which was secured for the Farmer's day, had planned for another engagement on the evening of that date, but failed to get a single evening date elsewhere. This leaves the company with an open date for Saturday night and the committee is required to pay the fee for the day anyway. So a Saturday night program will be given.
The company has a half hour Chinese play which can only be given after night. This play will be given together with several other novelties which the company gives. This company is composed of three artists: Clifford A. Foote, baritone and reader; Miss Marcella Franks, soprano and pianist; and Gerald S. Pel, tenor and water color artist.
The programs given by this excellent organization consist of trios, duets, solos, water-color paintings, readings and original one-act plays. A portion of the program is given to costume, the Indian numbers of which were arranged and costumed by the Princess Neawanna, who was here winter before last with the community orchestra.
While specializing in classic programs, this company is also prepared to give programs of the lighter popular selections, thus insuring a varied and artistic entertainment to any audience.
The following persons have reported that they have sold their allotment of tickets:
E. L. Beer, J. E. Caldwell, Glen Foster, J. E. Gantner, W. W. Hubbard, Herman E. Jones, P. A. Newhouse, Homer Powell, Peoples National Bank, Isom Stevens, R. F. Scudder, B. L. Trabue and S. L. Trabue.
The Chautauqua is an institution which the people of Rush County appreciate because it gives an opportunity right here at home to hear and enjoy the best in lectures and entertainment without the added expense of leaving home. Then, too, the program given for an adult ticket ($2.00) or a child's ticket ($1.00) is such that a person will get his money's worth by attending but one-third of the program. The wonderful plays given on Thursday, August 9th, by the Shepherd of the Hills company and the band programs on Friday, August 10th, alone are worth the price of a ticket.
The secretary is keeping a list of guarantors who have not yet sold out their tickets and will direct persons needing tickets to them. See store windows for notices of tickets available.

INVESTORS LOSS TO BE MINIMIZED

New Believed DOLLINGS Co., Affairs Will Be Settled So That Stockholders Will Not Suffer Much

ALL LOSSES FROM ONE FIRM

Condition Of Marion Plant And Note And Mortgage Company Probed By State Commission

Indianapolis, Ind., August 1.—Belief was expressed today by persons connected with the investigation of the R. L. Dollings Company of Indiana and its subsidiaries, that settlement of the parent companies affairs would be made in such a way as to minimize losses to Indiana investors. It was said today that the only losses investors in Indiana subsidiaries might suffer would come from a single industrial firm in the state. Maurice Mendenhall, administrator of the Indiana securities commission, returned today from Columbus, Ohio, where he made a two days investigation of the Dollings situation there.
Investigation of the condition of the Western Drop Forge Company of Marion, Ind., a subsidiary of the Indiana Dollings Company, was expected to be completed today by representatives of the attorney general's office and the state securities commission.
State officials have been probing the Marion concern and the International Note and Mortgage Company of Indianapolis, because they were the only Dollings subsidiaries organized under the supervision of placed the amount at about $12,300.
An unofficial estimate of the Dollings stock outstanding in Indiana placed the amount at about $12,300,000, according to Bert McBride, receiver.
The estimate given out as to the outstanding stock of the various companies follows:
Brazil Clay Products Company, Brazil, capital, $2,000,000; common outstanding, $750,000; preferred authorized $1,250,000; preferred issued, $1,200,000.
Anderson Foundry and Machine Company, Anderson; capital, $1,200,000; common outstanding, $400,000; preferred, authorized and outstanding, $800,000.
Hungro Manufacturing Company Warsaw, capital, $1,500,000; common outstanding, $500,000; preferred outstanding $1,000,000.

HUNDRED DELEGATES HERE FOR CONFERENCE

Sessions of Indianapolis District of The Methodist Episcopal Church Colored, Open Today

37 CHARGES REPRESENTED

The district conference of the Indianapolis district of the Methodist Episcopal church, colored, was being held in Rushville today, with the opening session this morning, and many delegates and visitors were here from the various churches of the district. The convention will continue until Friday night.
The district superintendent, Dr. E. A. White of Cincinnati, was here to preside at the sessions, and tonight the local Wesley M. E. church will hold a public reception for the visitors.
Ministers of Rushville and Judge Will M. Sparks were scheduled to address the meeting tonight. All of the sessions are being held at the Wesley M. E. church, of which the Rev. C. T. Parker is the pastor.
This morning the Woman's Home Missionary division was addressed by Mrs. R. A. Hanley of Indianapolis, and other branches of the church are to have sessions during the remaining days. The district comprises 37 churches, and each was well represented at the opening sessions today.
This afternoon the Woman's Home Missionary society observed their annual Memorial exercises, which were most impressive. The registry showed that 100 delegates were present today from the 37 charges.

ROAD PROGRAM FOR SUMMER FOG KEEPS VESSELS BACK

Seventeen Roads Being Worked Over in Allen County Now

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 1.—The greatest road building program in the history of Allen county is being carried on this summer. Seventeen roads are under construction.

By fall 40 miles of new concrete road will be finished, and many miles of other types of construction will be added to the county's system of highways.

The work includes 16 miles on the Lincoln highway and 12½ miles on the Lima road.

County and state maintenance crews are busy repairing and resurfacing other roads.

SAYS HARDING WAS IMPOSED ON

Mr. Harding further said: That he would not fight the senate for ratification of the court without reservation.

That he was proud of his administration's foreign relations record and of the "historic services of a great secretary of state."

That the Washington arms conference was the great outstanding achievement.

That the conference was not only a step towards world peace generally but that it had specifically removed apprehension of war from the Pacific area.

That he had not recognized Russia and that he would not because to do so would be to perpetuate the ills of Russia and to encourage a menace to American institutions.

That he hoped for success of the Mexican parleys but that Mexico must give assurances against confiscation.

That he was gratified that the United States had been able to be of aid in helping and be more firmly the peace of the western hemisphere by assisting in settling South and Central American questions.

That American intervention in Haiti and San Domingo had been of great value to those countries and that American troops would be soon entirely withdrawn from both.

Asks This Lady, "That I'm a Believer in Cardui?"—Had Been So Weak She Had to Go to Bed.

Oswatimie, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "We moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell."

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything had the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything."

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day these happened to be Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui."

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months."

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman."

"Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui? I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better medicine made for women than Cardui." NC-151

Only Ten Able To Make Rush To Land Immigrants Today

New York, Aug. 1.—Nature came to the aid of immigration officials who sought today to check the rush of would be American residents taking advantage of the new monthly quota. A dense bank of fog off Nantucket lightship and extending 100 miles eastward confined the mid-night race of liners to ten vessels. Another ten vessels could not reach Graves End Bay.

At 1 a. m., today the ten fortunate liners made their hush for quarantine, seeking to be first across the line between Forts Wadsworth and Hamilton, so that their immigrant passengers might be checked in as first to be counted in the new quota. The Majestic and the Adriatic were not in the final dash, being caught in fog off Nantucket Lightship.

pointed him one of three peace commissioners of the North to meet three from the South, led by Alexander H. Stephens for the purpose of making peace between the two sections. His mission was futile. The South was determined to dissolve the Union.

When the first call for 75,000 men was issued, he offered his services to Gov. Morton and on the 18th day of May was commissioned Colonel of the Sixteenth Regiment, which he commanded in the East for one year. He was made Brigadier General and transferred to Grant's army, and was assigned to command the First Brigade of the Second Division of the army of the Tennessee.

At Corinth, Miss., October 3, 1862, his fearless courage saved the day at the cost of his own life.

"In front of his line a railroad embankment extended through the thick woods, and a rebel battery covered it. The enemy was massing and throwing out a wing behind this protection and it became necessary to charge over the earthwork and drive back the foe. When the troops reached the open, in the zone of cross fire, they broke and retreated in confusion which was made worse by the coming up of a regiment of reinforcements. Having reformed his lines, he personally led his men to the charge, and just as the top of the embankment was carried the General received a fatal wound. His career, though brief, was brilliant. But the enemy's flag was turned, and the tide turned to ebb for the Confederacy in that section of the South, leaving open the road which ended at the fall of Vicksburg."

J. R. S. Cox, a private of company D, Sixteenth, Ind., Volunteers, who was for twelve months under his command, when learning of his death, wrote as follows:

"Let others speak of him as the lawyer and statesman, how well he acquitted himself in civil life, is for them to say; but when leaving all to do battle for his country, he did so bear himself as a soldier that while almost adored as a commander, he was venerated as a father by every man in the Sixteenth Indiana. We endured no hardship, he did not share, and no regiment ever loved their colonel more devotedly than the Sixteenth did, P. A. Hackleman. I have seen him wrap his blanket around him in the rain, and lie down to sleep on the damp ground, and when resting on the march, eating a cracker by the roadside, surrounded by a crowd of boys, roaring at his jokes; often trudging on foot, carrying a gun, while a sick man rode his horse."

THE SINNER:—Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.—James 4: 17.

Farmer-Labor Coalition

The victory of the farmer-laborite, so-called, in Minnesota recently, has caused many students of politics to examine the possibilities of a farmer-labor coalition, and many have come to the conclusion that it is not economically sound—a fact which the farmer will realize when he gives the matter some thought.

The farmer is an employer and needs continually an adequate supply of efficient labor.

The workman is a seller of labor service and is trying by organized effort to curtail the supply by insisting on laws limiting immigration, by demanding shorter hours and working rules that will necessitate the employment of greater numbers to do a given amount of work.

The farmer as a producer of goods for a competitive market needs lower wages in order that with lower prices for his products his cost of production may be reduced.

Organized labor is demanding a continually higher wage, and through its success in maintaining higher wages is not only attracting labor away from the farms, but is also increasing the wages of those who remain on the farm.

The farmer is in need of transportation facilities at the lowest possible rate compatible with adequate service.

From fifty to sixty percent of the operating expenses of the railroads is a direct labor cost. Railway employees in demanding an increased wage are, therefore, working directly counter to the farmers' desire for a reduction in rates.

In view of these considerations, it becomes pertinent to inquire whether a coalition between farmer and laborer is economically sound.

Wallaces' Farmer puts it this way:

"The one reason why farm product prices average only 30 to 40 percent above pre-war, whereas wages are twice pre-war, is that there is a surplus of farm products to be sold on the European market, whereas labor, because of immigration restrictions and tariffs, is sheltered from Europe. The farmer is on the international market; whereas labor is off the international market."

"Unfortunately, for the time being, the men who are cultivating both laborers and farmers seem to be interested solely in politics, and they find that the best way to accomplish their political ends is to hold up to both farmers and laborers, the sins of big business."

"The fundamental problem at the present time is to take farm products off the international market and raise them to a price as far above pre-war as wages are above pre-war. Will the leaders or organized labor help? If not, there is no use talking about a farmer and laborer alliance as long as present conditions continue. If such an alliance ever does materialize, it will indicate that both farm leaders and labor leaders are willing to think about the fundamentals of our civilization, that they are statesmen in the broadest sense of the term, and that both classes are educated so that they are imbued with a national cooperative ideal instead of profit, as the motive in everything they do."

The writer of the above editorial, it will be observed, rejects absolutely the possibility for an economic alliance between the farmers and organized labor. It is obviously becoming clear to the thoughtful farmer that the high wages paid to labor on the railroads and in the shops have taken away labor from the farms. It is also being realized that organized labor in railroad strikes and coal strikes has given no consideration to the economic welfare of the farmers. No national cooperative ideal can be made consistent with increasing demands enforced by strikes on the part of workmen.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus.

That's why S.S.S., since 1892, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plan to their strength. Your body has its own point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

Buncoing The Farmer
(Wallaces' Farmer)

Traveling solicitors of an eastern monthly farm journal seem to be at work in southwestern Iowa, and perhaps in other parts of the state, working a regular old-fashioned bunco game. They are going about in overalls, evidently in the hope that they may be taken for real farmers. Their first approach is by the presentation of a petition demanding lower taxes, the prevention of labor strikes, the licensing of commission men, and the reduction of freight rates. There are not many farmers who are not in favor of those four propositions, and consequently the solicitor gets a favorable reception. After signing the petition the farmer is told that a necessary part of the proceeding is the payment by him of the trifling sum of two dollars for which he will receive this particular farm journal for ten years.

Of course it is the two-dollar subscription the solicitor is after. All the rest is merely window dressing. The payment of the two dollars will not bring any lower taxes, nor lower freight rates, nor anything else except probably the monthly issues of this particular farm journal. It is simply a scheme for capitalizing the farmer's trouble for the benefit of this particular publication and not a very creditable scheme at that. One is inclined to wonder whether a publication that tries to work such a game is as sincere as it would like to have its readers believe. A paper that is worth reading ought to sell on its merits and the service it renders.

DEMANDS SENATOR PROVE THE CHARGES

Governor Blaine Wants Basis For Charges That Women Were Assaulted in State Capitol

SENATOR SAYS HE HAS IT

Madison, Wis., August 1—Governor Blaine today challenged State Senator Hiram J. Severson to prove charges in a speech last night that "women had been locked in offices and assaulted by state officials in the state capitol."

"If Senator Severson possesses proof he should lay it before me so that the guilty officials may be removed from office," Blaine said.

He wired the senator that he would also direct the district attorney to start criminal proceedings if such proof is forthcoming.

"I demand that you name the officials," Blaine's telegram said. "This demand is as emphatic as your duty is imperative."

Waupac, Wis., August 1—State Senator J. M. Severson today declared, he possessed facts, evidence and witnesses to back up charges that state officials had locked women in offices at the state capitol and assaulted them.

During the last session of the state legislature charges were made in the state house of "liquor hounds" between legislators and lobbyists and rumors of "gay parties" were whispered about.

Says He Will Demand Resignation of Service Commissioner

Indianapolis, Ind., August 1—Edgar M. Blessing, member of the public service commission and object of renewed attack by Mayor Shank, was in conference with Governor McCray today, presumably over Shank's latest attack.

Shank charges that Blessing represented a number of local utilities in Hendricks county after he was appointed a member of the commission.

"I'm going to demand Blessing's resignation and keep after him until I get it," Shank announced defiantly.

"I never represented any public utility after I became a member of the state commission," Blessing said.

COOLIDGE HAPPY BUDDY IS BETTER

By PAUL R. MALLON
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Plymouth, Vt., August 1—The man who would have been president sits on the front porch of an old Green Mountain homestead today with the happiest heart in the world—his buddy has pulled through the crisis.

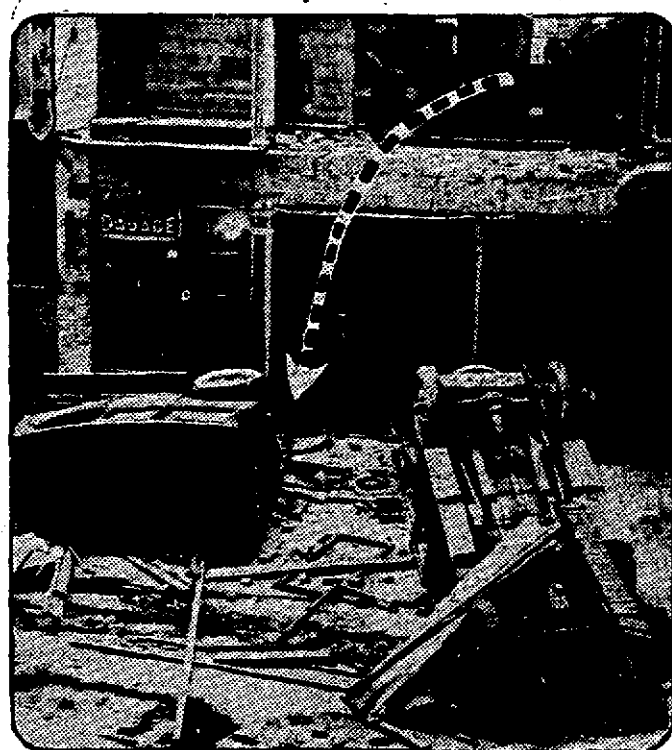

Calvin Coolidge, vice president of the United States, peers over the pine-topped hill tops to the westward and sees the picture of his chief, his friend and his buddy, struggling against the toxins of death to win out. It means that "Cal" as everyone calls him hereabouts, may not be president, but "Cal" didn't want to be president that way. He wanted his chief to win the fight and he is glad.

Ten miles from a telegraph line, back in the hills, where Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain boys routed the Red Coats, Coolidge is in direct touch with the bedside of his chief and president, Mr. Harding, ill at the Palace Hotel, across the continent in San Francisco. From Washington the vice president receives hourly bulletins on the condition of the chief executive. He has sent his sympathy to Mrs. Harding and a word of cheer to the president.

When he was given word that the president was believed to have passed the crucial point of his illness "Cal" was elated. There was a score of newspaper men who had traveled from all parts of the east, sitting on the doorstep and the 34 voters of Plymouth all were there.

"In common with all Americans," Coolidge said, "I am distressed at the illness of President Harding, and besides I am grieved at the suffering of a man with whom I have been so intimately associated on terms of more than ordinary friendship. The report indicates to me that he will recover to resume the important service which he is rendering to his country."

Autos Plunge Into Crowded Street

A freakish accident occurred in an uptown New York street, just off Broadway, when two automobiles tumbled out of the second story window of a garage. Passing crowds returning from theaters narrowly escaped death when a mechanic tried to move one machine and it rammed into another so hard that both were propelled through the window. Picture shows the first machine overturned and the second lying on its side.

SLOW PROGRESS BACK TO NORMAL

maintained today, however, and will be continued so long as there is the slightest possibility of a relapse. Dr. Sawyer and the other medical men cannot now see any danger of any such turn in the case, but out of long experience, Sawyer said today that "you never can tell what may happen."

Doctors Sawyer, Boone, Work, Wilbur and Cooper were to make their usual early morning examination of the patient about 8 a. m., today if he was awake at that hour. Sawyer said last night in issuing a final bulletin timed 11:10 p. m., that no further announcements would be made until after the regular morning consultation unless some unfavorable symptoms developed.

The 11:10 bulletin said: "President's condition at 11:10 p. m. Pulse 116; temperature 100.2; respiration 40. Resting comfortably. No further reports will come from sick room tonight unless unfavorable symptoms develop."

It was signed by Sawyer alone. This showed an increase in temperature of two tenths of a degree since the 4 o'clock bulletin, a no unnatural rise at night; a slowing of the pulse four beats and slower respiration by four breaths to the minute.

Taking into account the patient's general condition all through the day, the bulletin indicated a steady continuation of favorable progress, Sawyer said in issuing it.

A few minutes later Dr. Boone reported that the president had fallen asleep.

Mrs. Harding, who has stayed constantly close to her husband's bedside, may be persuaded by Sawyer today to take a short auto ride about the city to give her the benefit of the sparkling air, to which Sawyer attributed in part the president's good progress. Mrs. Harding has borne up with splendid courage and Sawyer expects she will not suffer any ill effects but he does not want her to undergo an unfavorable reaction when the strain of anxiety lessens.

All the members of the official party retired early last night, rid of the apprehension which kept them up nearly all of the previous night. Secretaries Hoover and Wallace and Speaker Gillette have remained almost constantly in the hotel, awaiting news of the president's condition.

Attorney General Daugherty, hurrying here from Seattle, was expected to arrive this morning. Daugherty who is a life long friend of the president, was summoned when Mr. Harding's condition grew grave. Daugherty is himself ill.

George B. Christian, the president's secretary, will go to Los Angeles tonight to represent the president tomorrow at a Knights Templar celebration and to deliver a speech for the president.

Wm. Wrigley of Chicago, a friend of the president, called at the Palace Hotel yesterday. He will invite Mr. Harding to convalesce at Catalina Island, where Wrigley has a magnificent estate. There are indications the doctors would favor the President's taking a weeks' rest somewhere near here before attempting the trip home.

Messages of Sympathy

San Francisco, August 1—Countless telegrams of sympathy and expressing hope for Mr. Harding's quick recovery have been received by the president and Mrs. Harding.

None of the messages will be given out for publication, nor will even the names of the senders be revealed, it was declared today, because of the wishes of Mrs. Harding.

She has taken the position that publication of those from royalty and from people widely known would be unjust to those more humble. All are appreciated equally, she feels and must be so treated.

Wilson a Sympathizer

Washington, August 1—Former President Wilson today sent a message to President Harding at San Francisco sympathizing with the executive in his illness.

Mr. Wilson expressed the hope that the president speedily will recover. The ex-president himself was stricken ill, while on a speaking tour of the country in behalf of the League of Nations and has not yet recovered.

The message from Mr. Wilson is understood to have been sent direct by telegraph to President Harding at the Palace Hotel at San Francisco.

Dr. Harding May Have Plane

Washington, Aug. 1.—If Dr. George T. Harding, father of the president, wants to fly to San Francisco from Marion, Ohio, to be at his son's bedside, the army air service is ready to supply a machine and pilot.

Officials here indicated Dr. Harding had only to express the desire.

(This Was Written by a Woman)

"IT'S GOOD"

I was using a well known household article when my friend came in.

"Why did you buy that kind?" she asked.

"Because it's good," I told her. She asked me why. Without realizing what I was doing I gave her several technical reasons for the superiority of that machine. I listed a number of its mechanical advantages and one or more very special conveniences that I felt meant a great deal to me.

My reply surprised even myself. I had not realized I knew so much about it. After I had recited my reasons to her I analyzed my first answer, "it's good," and I found that answer typified all of the specific things I was able to recite about the machine which I had as a matter of fact recently purchased.

It had been widely advertised and I, as a larger buyer for a household, always felt that any woman may be guided to safe and satisfactory investments for her own needs and the needs of her family if she will but use the messages which manufacturers send to her in her newspaper or in her magazine.

Until I had said, "it's good," I did not realize that I had been reading so much about the advantages of the machine which I subsequently purchased. One after the other those messages had gotten into my mind until when asked to do so I was capable of repeating them almost as if I had been a salesman for the company making that article.

However, I realized that the printed message had not really meant so much to me as the repeated appearance. Seeing that article over and over again meant to me that many other women had reached the point where they could purchase it sooner than I and were well satisfied with it.

Almost instinctively the thought took hold of me that when I saw the name of a product appearing again and again I could feel sure that that product was living up to its promise. I could feel secure in buying it.

If only all women would realize that in whatever they buy—machines or furniture—clothing or food—dress goods or hats—jewelry or toys—they may save themselves unwise expenditures by seeking the product which through its advertising and behavior after purchase compels its thousands of customers to say, "it's good."
